

Encouraging togetherness and learning in dementia care

Free Networking Event

Wednesday 16th March 2016, from 2pm until 5pm

at Hampton Hill Theatre, 90 High Street, Hampton Hill, London TW12 1NY

This event is sponsored by the Neurology Service at St George's University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust with the support of the St George's Hospital charity.

This free event will include a film screening of 'I Can't Find Myself', a new film production portraying the real-life stories and experiences of people living with dementia.

The film is aimed at carers and organisations that support people living with dementia, to create a wider understanding of the complexities faced by people with dementia, with a positive view on how they can be supported. The 12-minute film entitled 'I Can't Find Myself' calls out to all those family members, as well as clinical and care staff, to explore collaborative and creative solutions.

The film was based on interviews undertaken with people who live with dementia and their carers, to depict their lived experiences through the film. Through the use of dance theatre and music, the film takes the audience on one woman's journey highlighting the emotional world of memory, love and loss.

To register for this event, please complete the form below or to book on-line: <https://free-networking-event-hampton-hill.eventbrite.co.uk>

Please enrol me on the Free Networking Event being held on 16th March 2016.

Name _____

Address _____

Telephone _____ Mobile _____

Email _____